Prepared: June 2026 | Author: Manus AI | Use: Copy-paste directly into Google Business Profile setup

How to Use This Document

Go to business.google.com and click Add your business. Work through each section below in order. Every field is pre-written — copy and paste directly. Do not paraphrase; the descriptions below are optimized for Google’s character limits and keyword relevance.

Section 1: Business Identity

Field	Value
Business Name	A1 Homestead Hub
Category (Primary)	Educational Resource Center
Category (Additional 1)	Online Community
Category (Additional 2)	Agricultural Service
Website	https://a1homesteadhub.com

Why these categories: Google Business Profile allows one primary and up to nine additional categories. “Educational Resource Center” is the closest match to what the platform actually does — it teaches skills and hosts curriculum. “Online Community” captures the barter board, member directory, and land access map. “Agricultural Service” connects you to homesteaders and farmers searching for resources in your region.

Section 2: Location & Service Area

Because A1 Homestead Hub is a digital platform, you have two options:

Option A — Online Business Only (Recommended to start) Select “I deliver goods and services to customers” and choose “I serve customers at their location.” Set your service area to the United States. This keeps your home address private while still appearing in Google Search and Maps.

Option B — Physical Address (If you want local search visibility) Use your home address or a P.O. box. This puts you on the map pin in local search results, which is valuable for reaching homesteaders in your specific region. Your address can be hidden from the public listing — Google only uses it to verify your location.

Recommendation: Start with Option A. Once you have consistent traffic and reviews, add a physical address to unlock the local map pack results.

Section 3: Business Description

Short Description (250 characters — used in search previews):

A1 Homestead Hub is a free platform for self-reliant living — skill libraries, homeschool curriculum, barter board, land access map, community directory, and daily homesteading content.

Photo specifications: Minimum 720px wide, JPG or PNG, under 5MB. Google recommends at least 10 photos for a complete profile.

Section 9: Q&A Seeds

Google allows businesses to post their own Q&A on their profile. Add these immediately after your profile is verified — they appear in search results and reduce friction for new visitors:

Q: Is A1 Homestead Hub free to use? A: Yes. Creating an account and accessing all skill libraries, the barter board, land access map, community directory, and daily content is completely free. The Schoolhouse Pro subscription ($9/month) unlocks advanced AI tutor features and unlimited course creation, but the core platform has no cost.

Q: Do I need homesteading experience to use the platform? A: No. The skill libraries are written for beginners and experienced homesteaders alike. The homeschool curriculum starts at kindergarten level. The community directory includes people at every stage of the journey.

Q: What is the Schoolhouse and who is it for? A: The Schoolhouse is a full homeschool curriculum platform with K–12 courses, a homesteading and STEM focus, and an AI tutor named Miss Hazel who reads lessons aloud and answers student questions. It is designed for homeschool families who want to integrate practical self-reliance skills into their children's education.

Q: How often is new content added? A: Every day. The platform runs an automated content engine that publishes a new blog post, adds a tip to a skill page, expands a course, and refreshes the homepage feed — all before 11am UTC daily.

Q: How do I list something on the barter board? A: Create a free account at a1homesteadhub.com, then navigate to the Barter & Trade section. You can post goods, skills, or services and browse listings from other community members. There are no fees and no middleman — all exchanges are direct.

Section 10: First Review Strategy

Google Business Profile reviews are the single most important factor in local search ranking. Here is how to get your first five reviews without violating Google's policies:

Who to ask:

- Family members who have used the site
- Early community members who signed up
- Homeschool parents you know personally
- Anyone who has attended a local event you promoted through the site

What to send them (copy-paste this message):

“Hey — I've been building a free homesteading platform called A1 Homestead Hub and I just set up our Google Business Profile. If you've had a chance to look at the site and found it useful, I'd really appreciate a quick honest review. It helps other homesteaders find us. Here's the link: [your Google Business Profile review link]. Thank you.”

What not to do: Do not offer incentives for reviews. Do not ask people who have not actually used the site. Do not post fake reviews. Google detects all of these and will remove your profile.

Section 11: Verification

After submitting your profile, Google will ask you to verify your business. For an online business, the options are typically:

1. Phone verification — Google calls or texts a code to your number. Fastest option.

2. Email verification — Google sends a code to your business email. Use nikki@a1homesteadhub.com or your primary contact email.
3. Video verification — Google asks you to record a short video showing your workspace. This is becoming more common for online businesses.

Complete verification within 7 days of receiving the prompt. Unverified profiles do not appear in search results.

Post-Setup Checklist
